You are a great person with a great personality. Best of luck to a great person. Love, Susan

"June 2, 1980"

Dear Stevie Bear,

I really dont know where to start. There are so many things to say. I'm sitting here remembering all the times we had together and remembering all that we've been through. For the most part, this was a perfect. In a way I wish I wasn't going away because it's been the Summer, because I feel about your things would be there when I come back. Stevie, No matter what happens I'll still be the same. I'll always be the same. I'll always be there for you. I'll always feel special for you about any reasons. I never felt like I'm somebody. I have to have feelings and I'll always be there for you and that's the most important part of me.

Together because you will never forget that. But nothing will beat the time we met. I can't hope you will never forget why you'll always be first times for me with you. another reason for a lot of things said then were Remember the first night we will be together and that's Forget that. But nothing like I said before. It's the reservation. like I'm so many first times for me with you. get this page we will be together. maybe in September we will be cool before it reunited". I really want to wish you the best of luck in everything you do because you're the one person

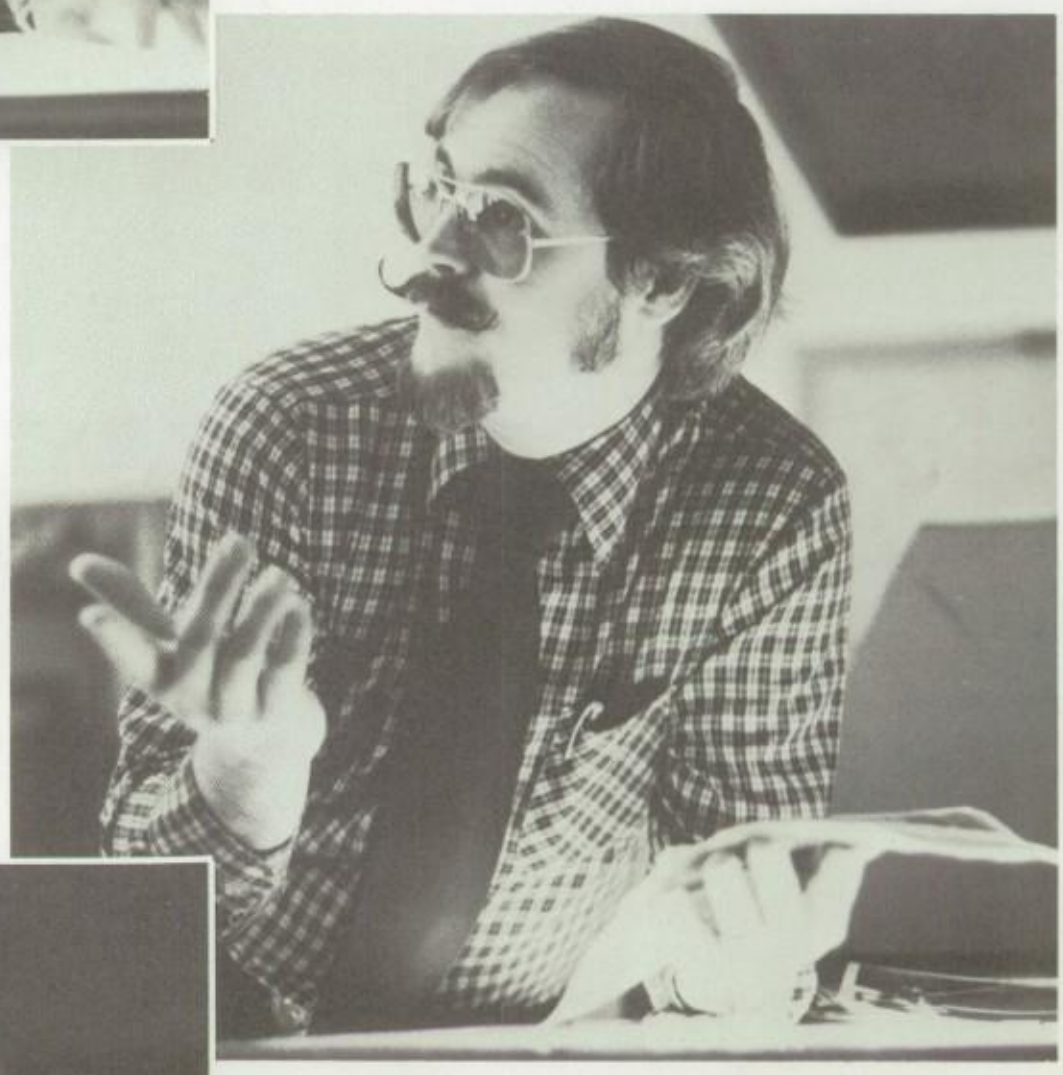
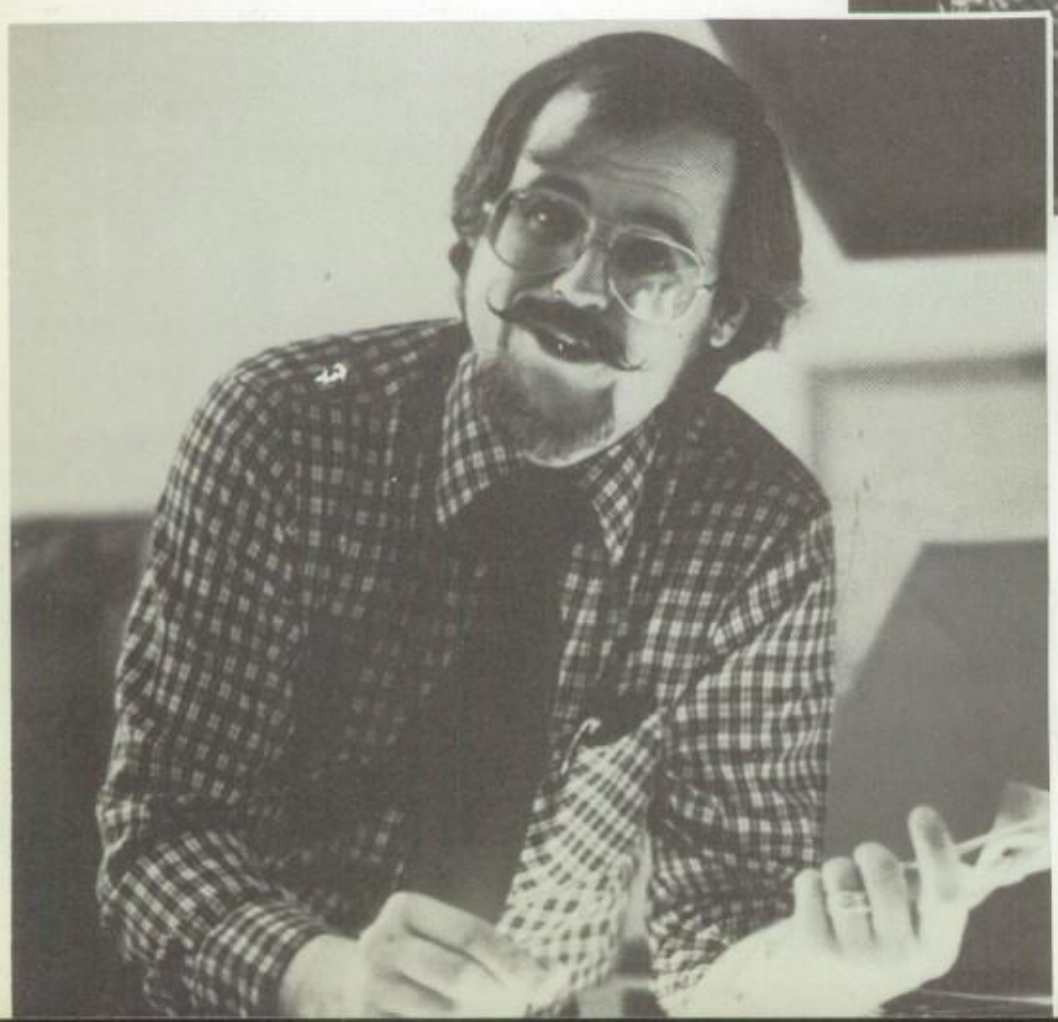
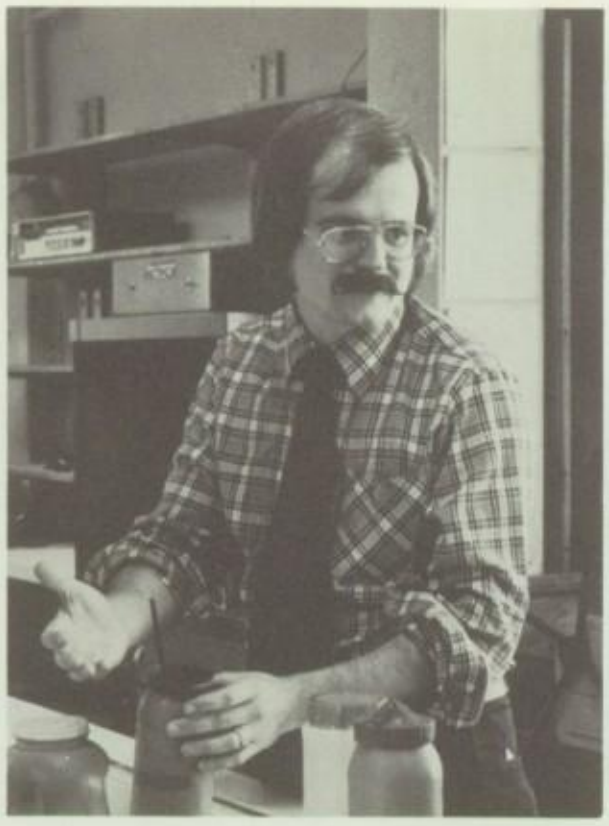
Always patient, kind, and understanding, this individual sparkles with spirit and charm . . .

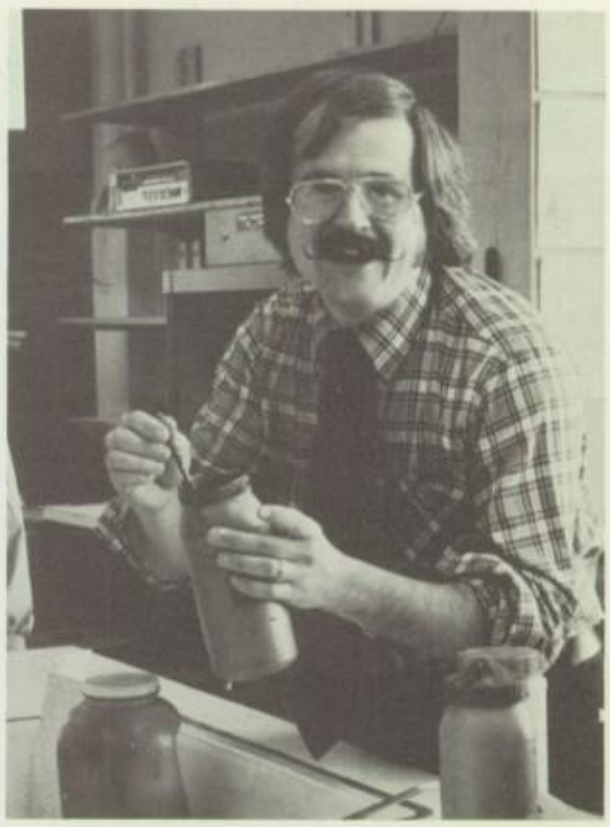


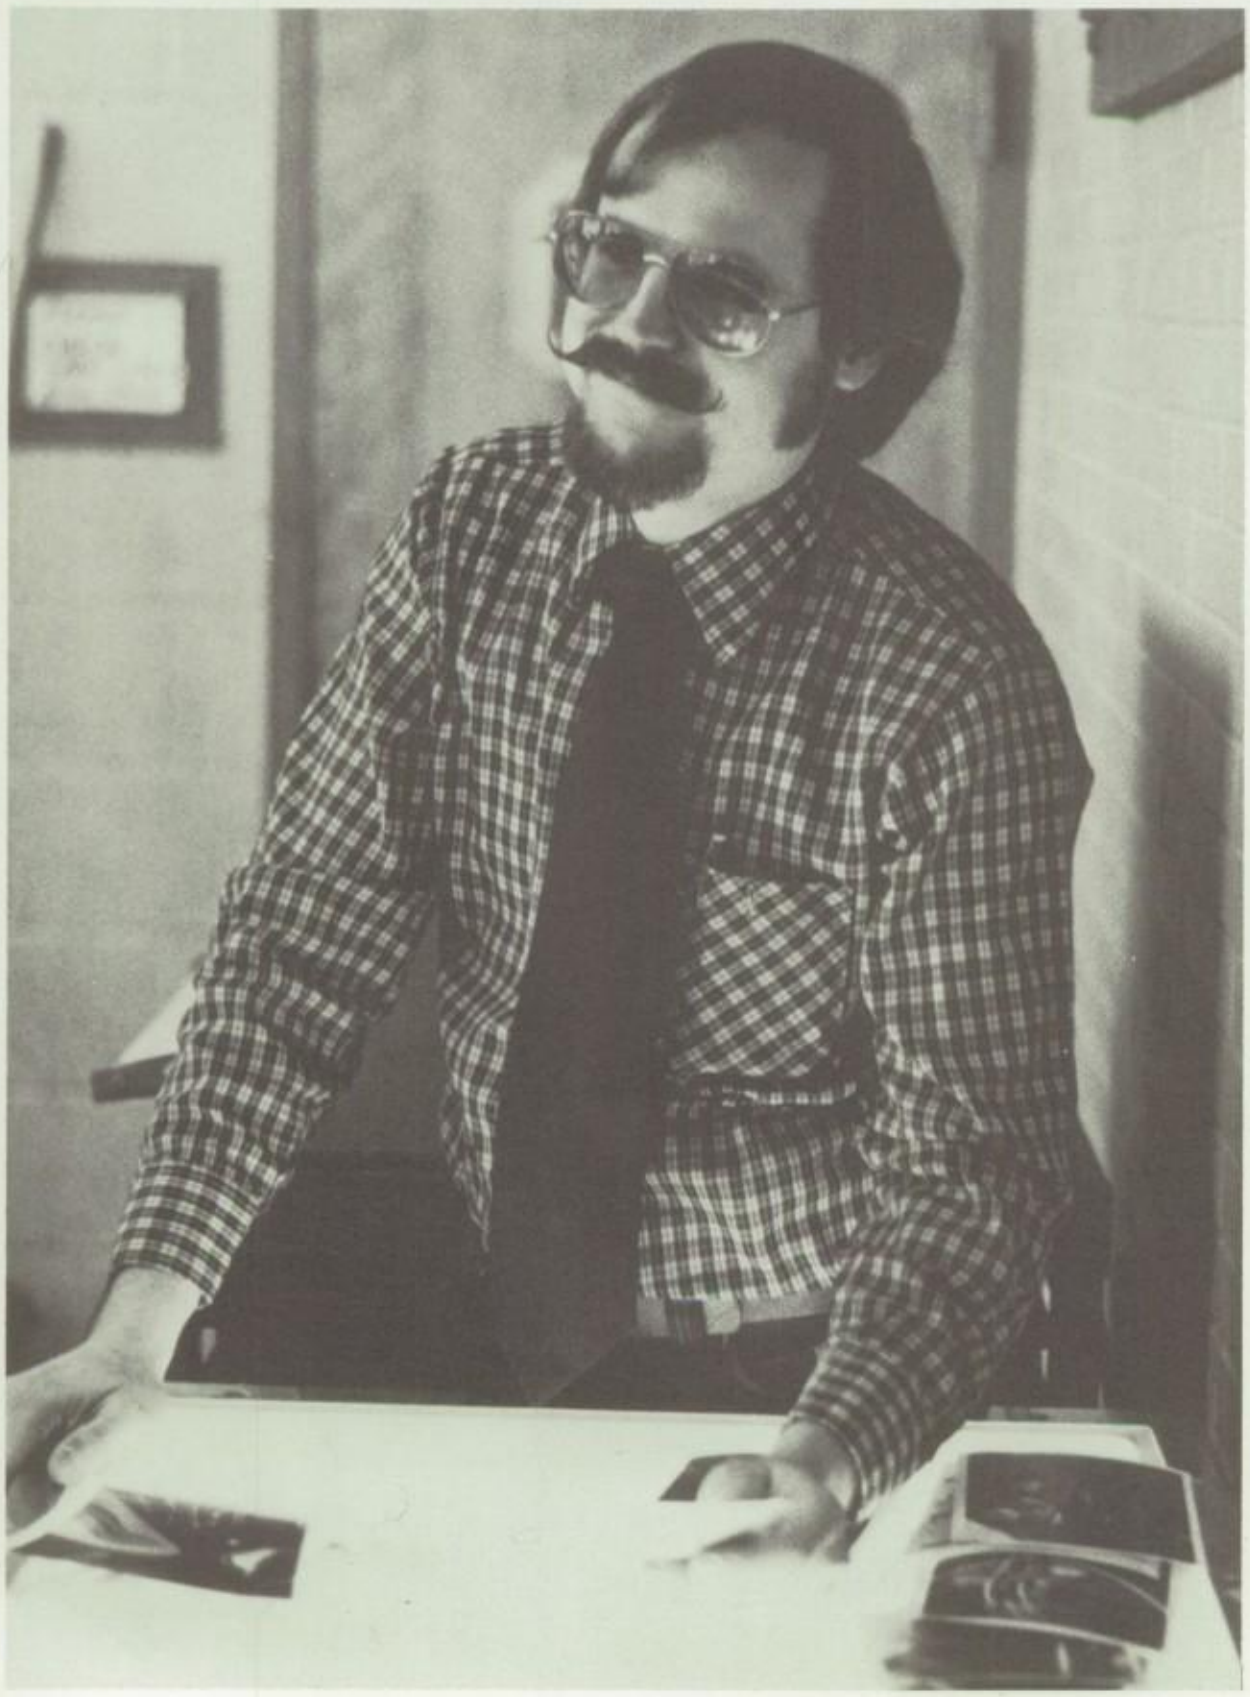
His students eagerly await the publication of his "BOOK" which will contain tales of the unusual happenings in his classes. How could it possibly not be a bestseller? . . .



He is rated for his precision-curled handlebar and superb facial expressions. This is one c-r-a-z-y kind of guy" . . .







He can often be heard discussing the events of the day in a Father Guido "Saturday Night Live" Sarducci accent . . .

Many are well aware of his unique sense of humor; it is an experience to laugh with him, to share in his delight.

Not only is this man an excellent teacher, but also a true friend. One can comfortably speak with him, be it about a joyous happening or a troubling problem.

We, the Editors of Exit '80, take great pride in dedicating this yearbook to a very special person . . .

Mr. McCrohan and Mrs. Kirschenbaum play "Ring Around the Tree."

Working on EXIT '80 has certainly proven to be a unique experience; the task of taking, developing, and cropping over 800 pictures (not to mention the 3000 we had to sift through) has been enough to drive us all insane. . . . Thus begins the description of the eight ingenius people who have put together this extraordinary masterpiece.

First of all, there is Nancy, our Editor-in-Chief, who has proven by her never-ending laughter that meeting deadlines is a piece of cake! Next is our fashion consultant, Fran, more commonly known as "The Queen of Sarcasm," who would be better off if she stayed off the road! Following her is Michael (Wojo), "our vocal minority" and ALO representative, whose pride and joy is his "garbage pit." Carole, who graces our room with her shortness, is very big on gossip; she's not so quiet after all . . . And what would we do without Jon? He visits us occasionally, impressing us with his exciting developments. Next is Joanne, who never disregards our pleas for help, and thus devotes all of her time to the yearbook. She, therefore, weighs only 90 lbs and has forgotten what food looks and tastes like. The following two people are our dedicated advisors. Mrs. Kirschenbaum, "The Kid," tantalizes us with her gourmet cake and muffins . . . and three weeks later, they are still there to tantalize us! Mr. McCrohan, "Cronie," has sufficiently proven that he has a warped sense of humor (especially to Nancy).

Highlights of EXITING include Friday parties, "dig it," "pink eye," Guido and Gonzo, the tiki bird, Jon's speaker, the priceless Picasso, and some extremely well-used light boxes.

Of course we, the Editors, could never have succeeded in our efforts without the help of Mr. James Bastinck, Miss Elaine Bastinck, Mr. Ralph Smith, The Nutley Sun, David Vaughn, the Exit Staff, ITT, Mr. Gene Conrad, the high school secretaries, and all those who cooperated in helping us to get the yearbook out on time. We wish to express our sincere thanks for everything they have done.

So ends our story. We truly hope that you enjoy this yearbook, for it is the symbol of our dedication, hard work, and all of our AWESOME talents.

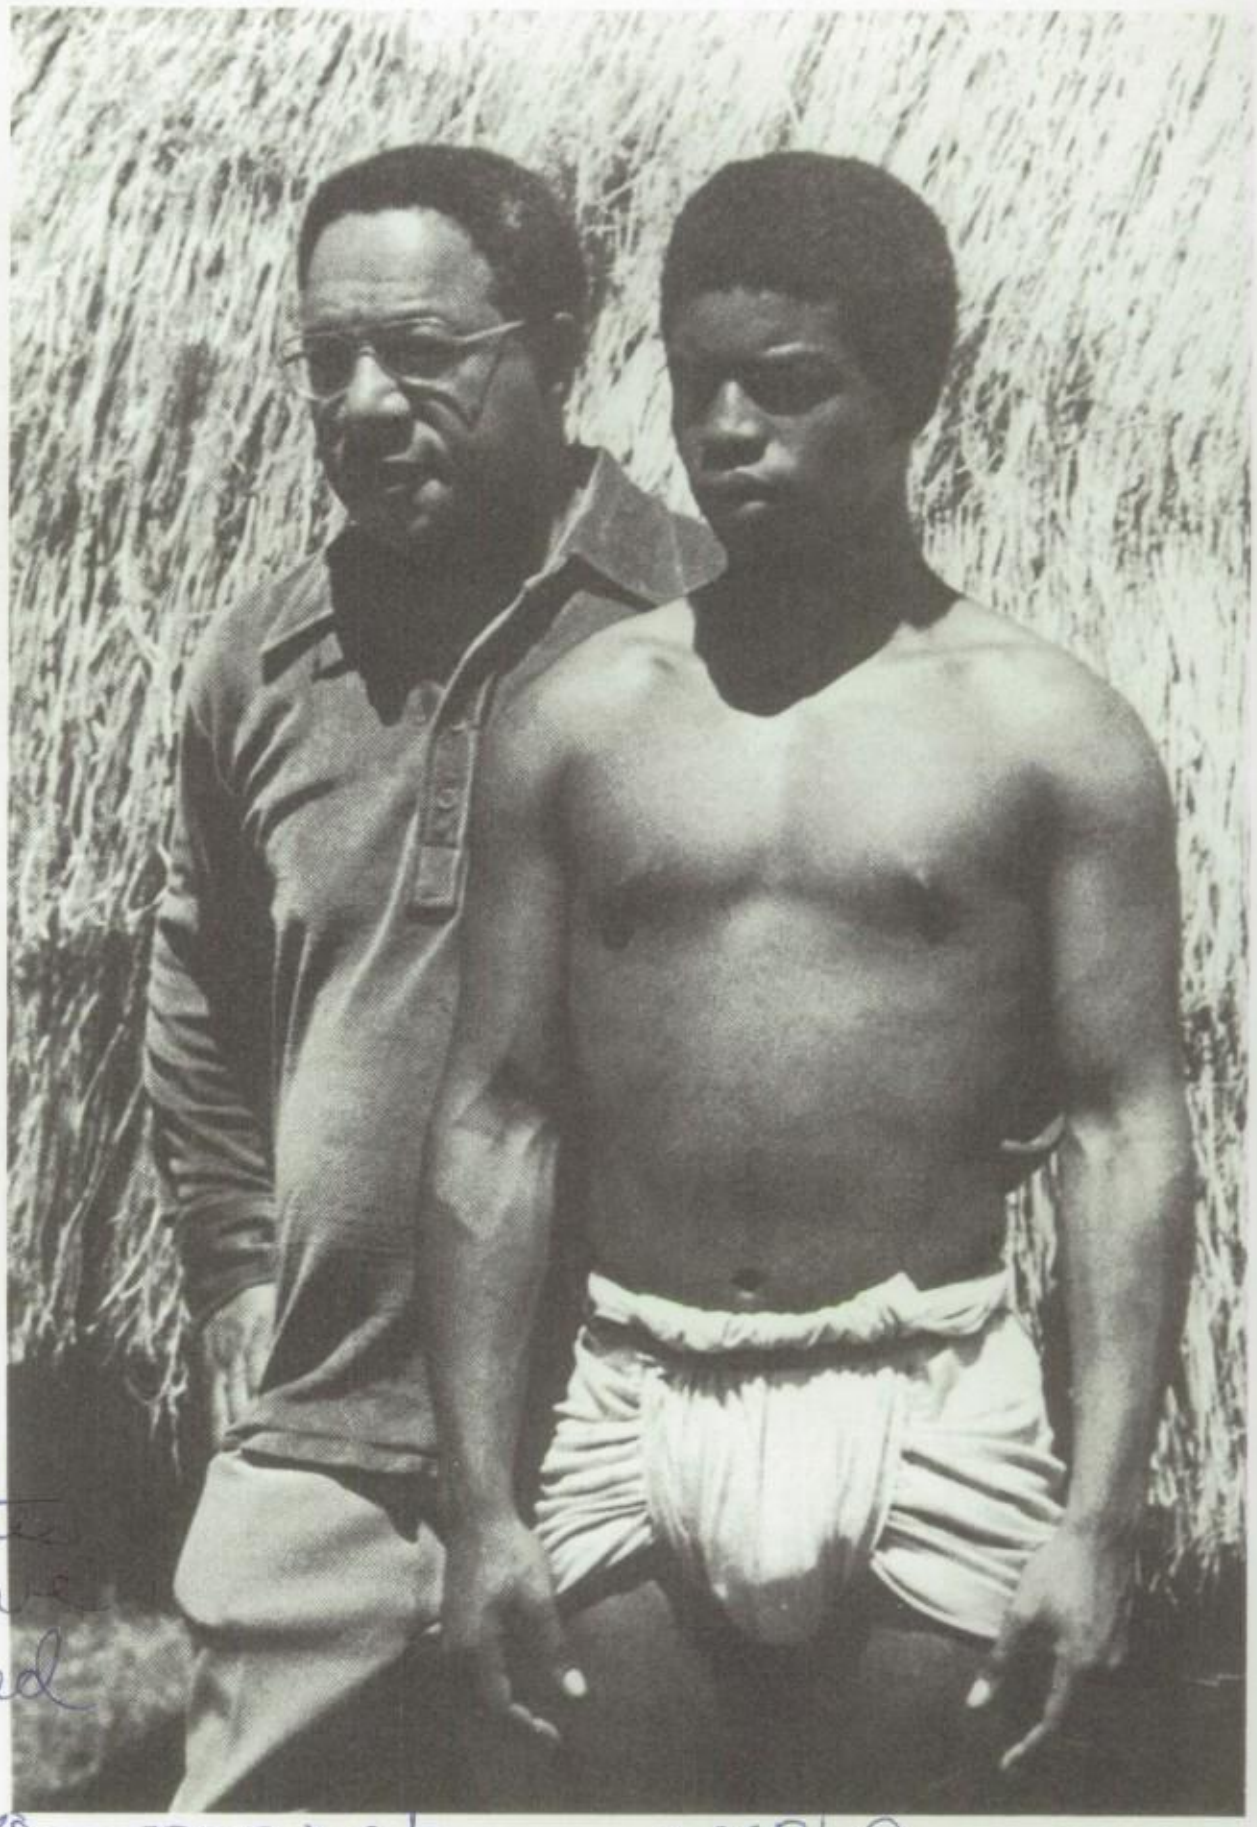
Problems to ponder...

1976 — 1977

The members of the Class of '80 entered high school during a very exciting and important period of time — the Bicentennial, America's commemoration of its two hundredth birthday. We, as freshmen, also celebrated a "birth" as we entered the world of high school, filled with new adventures and ideas to explore.

This first period was also filled with difficulty. In President Carter's first address to the nation, the fact was stressed that the help of the American people was needed in order to combat the energy shortage, especially during the time when weather conditions were critical. We soon had great faith in Carter, who proved in this speech to be a "master of the symbolic act."

While Americans pondered existing problems, another was displayed on public television — that of racial prejudice. ABC's epic dramatization of Alex Haley's Roots was shown for eight consecutive nights, and was viewed by millions. Haley's story traced his family's passage from an ancestral home in Africa to slavery in America, and finally, to freedom. The impact of this show was great, and it left its mark in the state of US race relations.



Hey Steve — '80

Here in primate city — So we're finally marched our Looonnng march... ADER! Anyway Shit! I can't think of anything to write except Best of luck forever, but ~~them~~ then again seeing you're my Bestest friend — I'll always be there to wish you the luck anyway — you're the Best (Take it any way you want)

Well I'm gonna bullshit & run out of room so I ~~had~~ better cut it now —

Love forever & ever & ever!!!

No matter what event was beguiling the customers, the Olympics produced a virtually continuous display of the superbly conditioned human body. The three gesticulating swimmers on the opposite page are Canadians and they are leaping at poolside in their natty maple-leaf trunks because their colleague in the water is finishing second in the 400-meter relay. The man behind them is 6' 6" John Naber of Menlo Park, Calif., winner of four gold medals — who seems almost surprised to discover that the U.S., which won 18 swimming golds in all, is winning the relay, too. The handsome fellow at left

There was also a great sense of positiveness and challenge during this time. We viewed the 1976 Olympics which brought with it some extraordinary athletes, such as Bruce Jenner, decathalon winner, and Nadia Comaneci, who surprised many by attaining scores of perfect tens in the area of gymnastics.

This year was a very important one for all of us, as students. We were now ready to take our next step . . .

Sights and sounds to enjoy...

Our sophomore year was a period in our high school lives when we found ample time to enjoy ourselves. The problems we had adjusting to as freshmen had passed and the decisions of junior and senior years determining our future were yet to come. The most pressing personal issue in our high school lives at this time was the question of whether or not to order a school ring.

There was no singular event either nation — or world-wide that directly affected our personal lives in Nutley High during the school year of 1977-8. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt went to visit Israel's Menachem Begin in Tel Aviv to discuss terms for a lasting peace in the Middle East, but these talks had no influence on a major concern of Americans — oil prices. We, as fifteen year old high school students who couldn't drive anyway, remained largely unaffected and uninterested. The economy of the United States was on a downswing but we could still buy a Coke and two slices of pizza for a dollar at Rocky's or a package of Yodels at Garden State for 20¢. The style of clothing created by French designers was basically soft and flowing, but no one in Nutley was wearing anything French.

In the fields of sports and entertainment, the Yankees beat the Los Angeles Dodgers in six games in the 1977 World Series while the Dallas Cowboys beat the Denver Broncos in Super Bowl XI. Disco made it big because of John Travolta's acting talent and the Bee Gees' musical style in the popular film "Saturday Night Fever," just as Elvis Costello was ushering in "New Wave" music with his punk image and lyrical as well as musical arrangements. That "wild and crazy guy," Steve Martin, was on a massive popularity upsurge unsurpassed by his peers in the comedy field.

The high school year of 1977-78, our sophomore year, was indeed a quiet one for us. The time had been given to us free of worries and responsibilities unlike the year to follow . . .

Trends to set...

1978 — 1979

As we entered our junior year, we soon realized that it was going to be one of importance, happiness, and also sadness.

We were amazed at the birth of medical-science's great miracle, Louise Brown, the world's first test tube baby. Also fascinating were the treasurer of King Tutankhamen, on display at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

An exciting form of entertainment emerged as the "disco craze." We danced the night away in Candies and designer jeans (much to their manufacturer's delight). If we felt hungry afterward, we cruised down to Nutley's brand new Burger King.

Also popular were perms, the "Annie Hall" look, and toga parties, introduced in the hilarious movie "Animal House."

There was much tragedy during this year. The mass suicide in Guyana, the deaths of Pope Paul VI and successor, Pope John Paul I, famed New York Yankee, Thurman Munson, and renowned artist, Norman Rockwell, moved us deeply. On the local scene many of us were saddened by the burning down of a friendly, familiar sight, the Dairy Queen.

Much had happened during our third year at Nutley High. There was still much more to come. . . .

Steve,

In photography you were always a great help to me. Even though you busted me like everyone else, at least once in a while you would help. I want to thank you for understanding me when I needed a friend. I always had a great time being with you. I don't usually write like this but it's hard on the bottom of the page. I guess you could say that we tried, but it was just better being good friends. I hope it means maybe sometime in the future. But I want you to

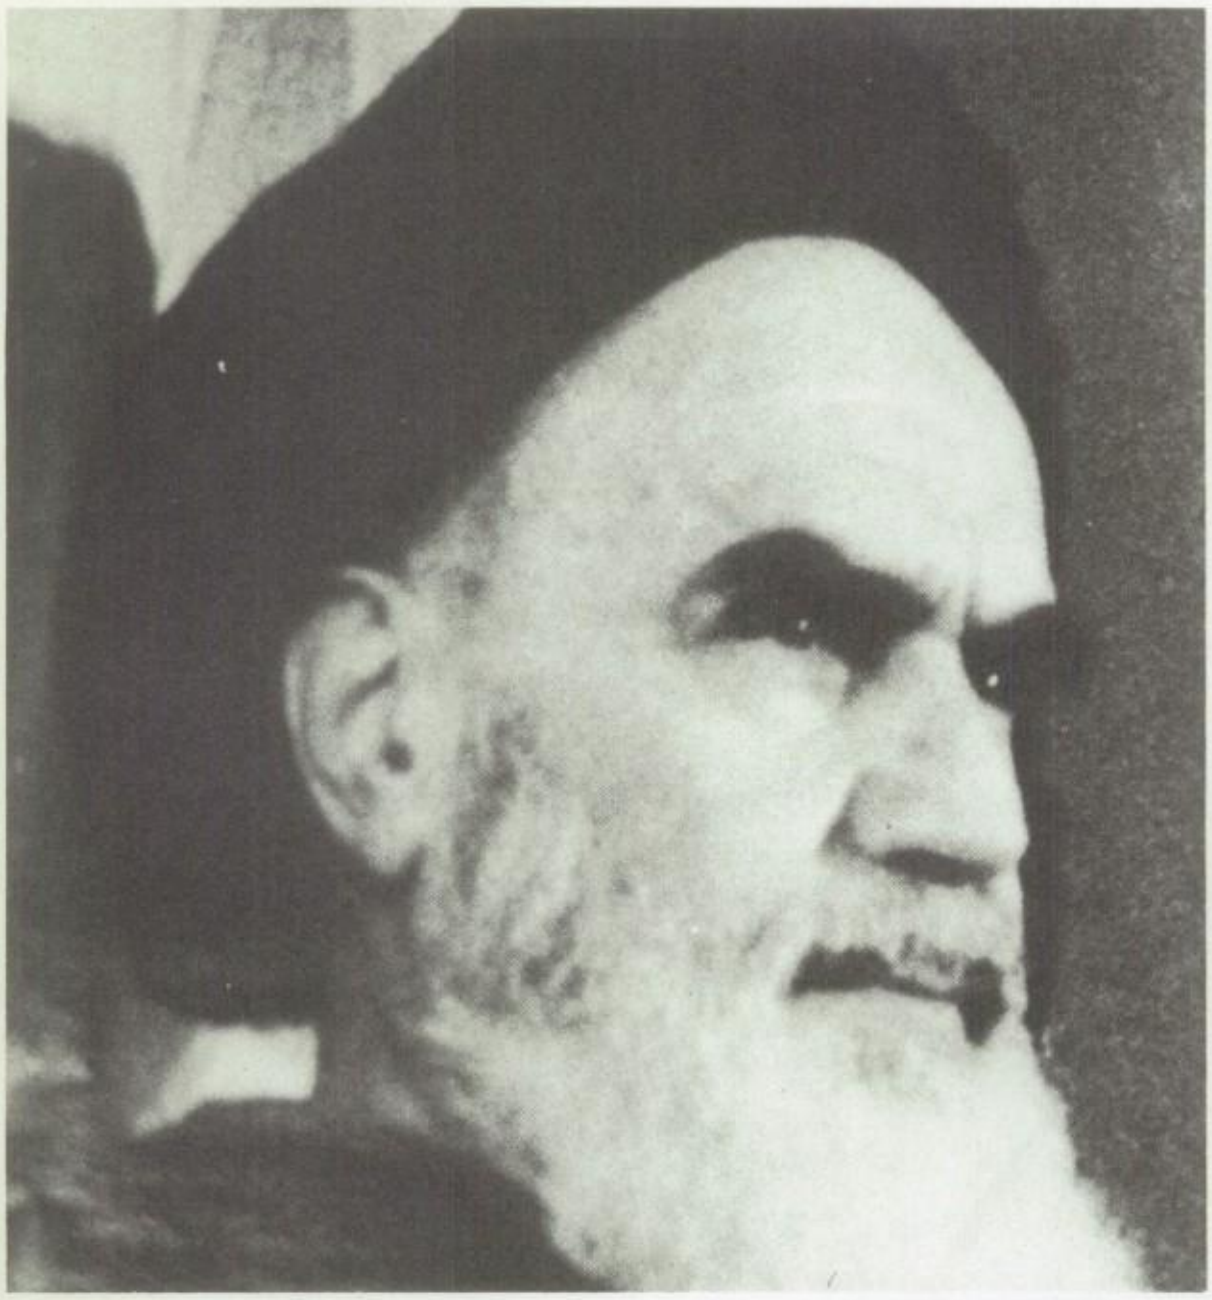
A future to design...

1979 — 1980

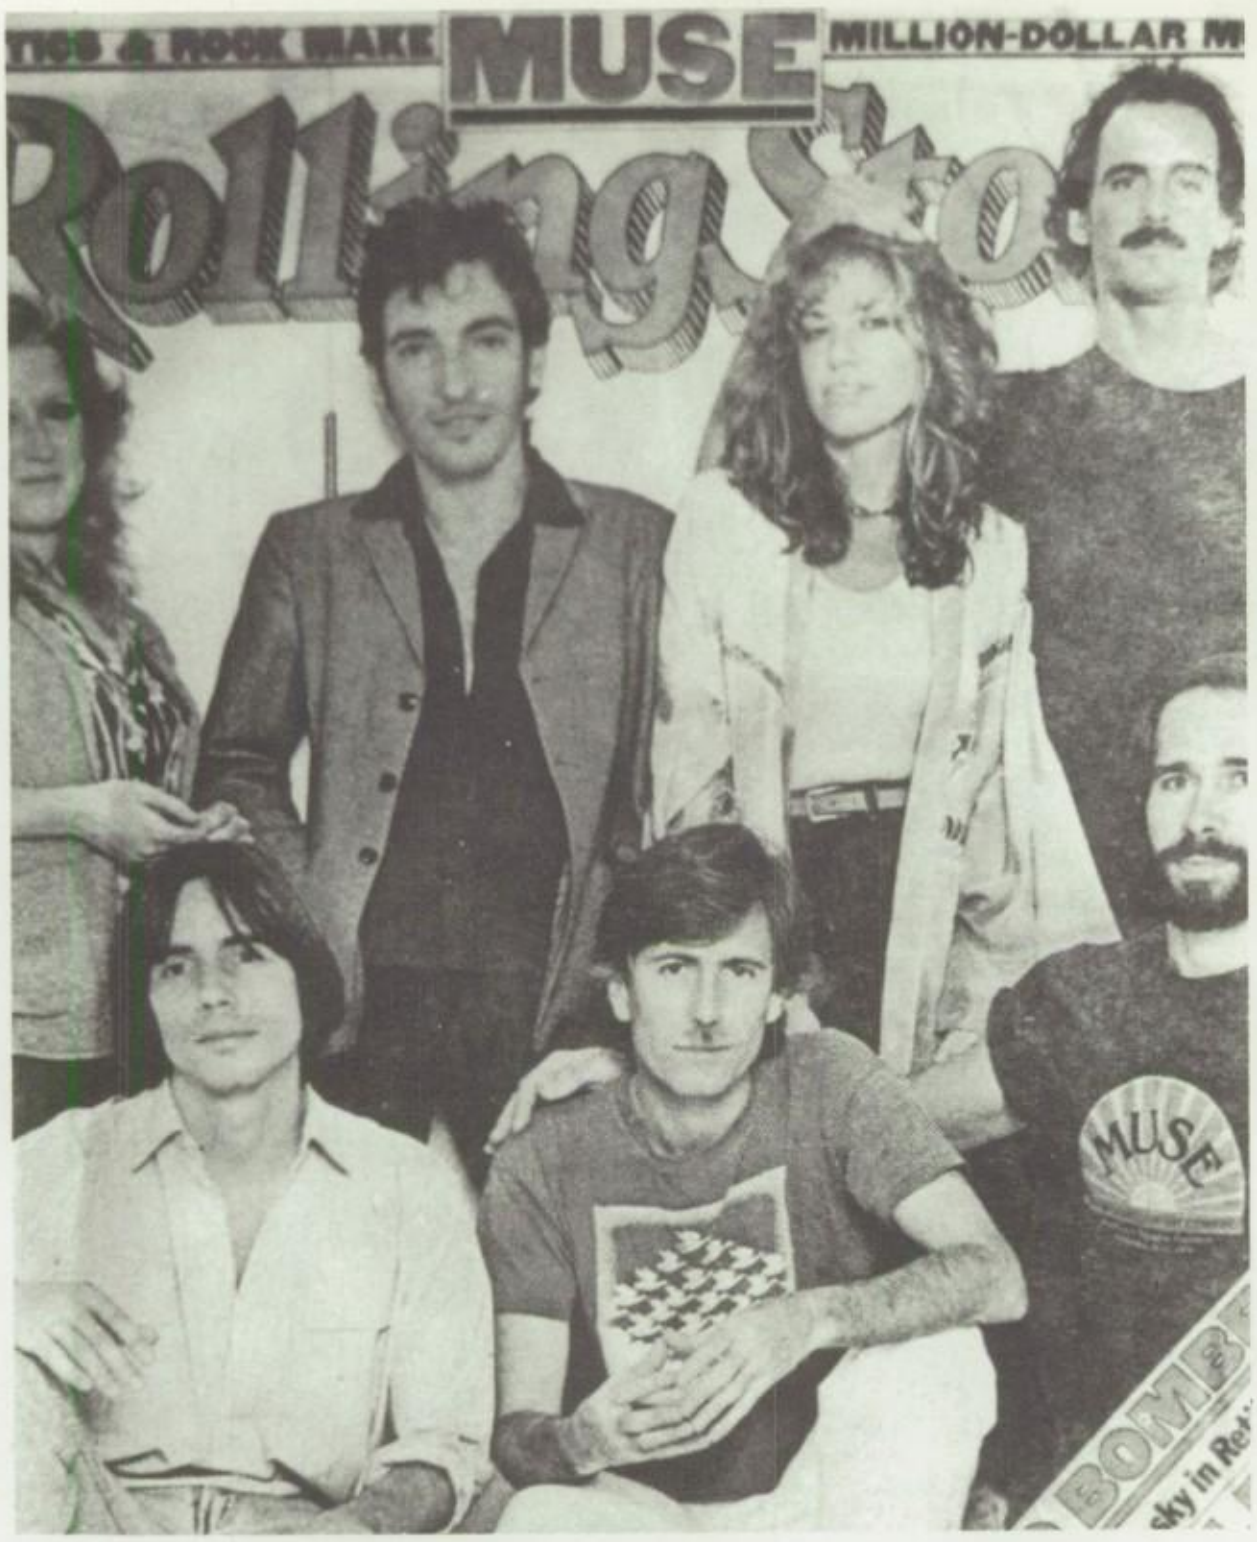


As we entered our senior year we were filled with excitement and anticipation. We couldn't wait to see what our final year at Nutley High would bring. Our minds were in turmoil, deciding what to do after school, whether to further our education or to enter the career world. Like us, our country was also in turmoil. The crisis in Iran shocked all as international law was directly violated. Still another horror was the Russian invasion of Afghanistan.

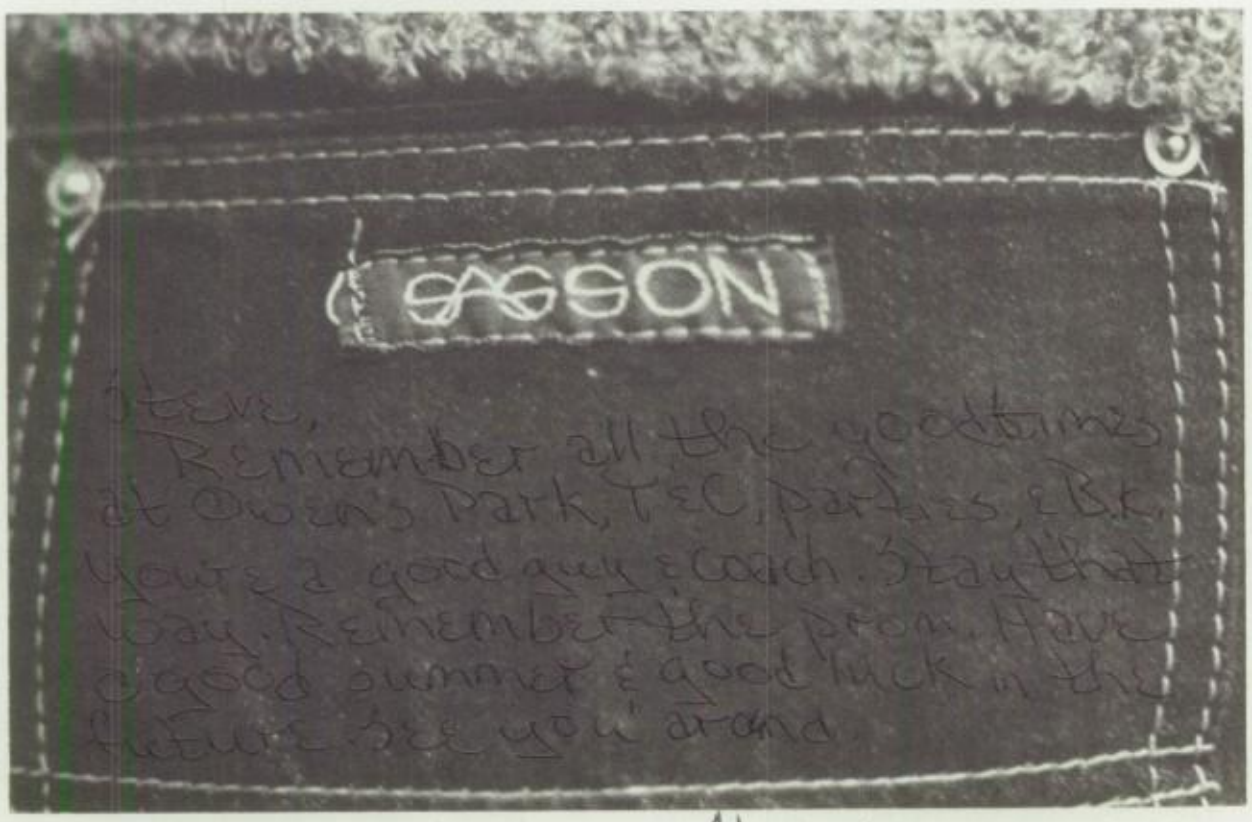
By our seventeenth birthdays, we witnessed the rise of gas prices to one dollar and beyond. Gold also soared from thirty-six dollars an ounce in 1970 to a record high of seven hundred dollars plus in January 1980. Another thing that rose was the drinking age, from 18 to 19.

Despite these problems we still found time to laugh and enjoy ourselves. The bright comic Steve Martin starred in his first movie, "The Jerk." The film was so absurd, it was amusing. A "different" kind of film also swept us away. "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" was so far removed from reality that it became a success.

The two major musical happenings during this year were the MUSE (Musicians United for Safe Energy) concerts at Madison Square Garden and the chaotic tragedy at "The Who" concert in Cincinnati. During the first concert, many anti-nuclear musicians joined talents to make the concerts successful. Among them were superstars Bruce Springsteen, Jackson Browne, and James Taylor. The second concert started out as a celebration and ended in the needless death of eleven young people.



As we entered a new decade, New York was busy putting the finishing touches on the Olympic Village at Lake Placid. The facilities were all set up for the athletes but the problem was the absence of snow. It was late January and the entire east coast hadn't seen one inch of the fluffy white stuff. At the games, the US hockey team and Eric Heiden emerged as the "golden boys." Heiden won an unprecedented five individual gold medals in speed skating. However, the biggest thrill for all Americans came when the underdog US hockey team defeated a strong Russian team and went on the defeat Finland for the gold medal.



SAGSON
Steve,
Remember all the good times
at Owen's Park, T&C parties, & B.K.
You're a good guy & coach. Stay that way. Remember the prom. Have future. See you around.

Many existing fashions became more popular during our senior year. Perhaps the most popular were designer jeans. Somehow, wearing somebody's name on one's back pocket really became a status symbol. The jean craze started the ball rolling for designer shirts, sweaters, skirts, umbrellas, and even eyeglasses. However, the traditional levis straights still held their place. There was also a boom in boot manufacturing. It seemed everyone went from last year's Candies to Frye cowboy boots. Along with the boots came the down vests and jackets. Now one didn't have to be a skiier to own these garments.

Though our fads and styles are somewhat different, we still are like every other senior class to pass through NHS. The times are changed but the goals remain the same; we all look forward to our NEW BEGINNINGS.
